Fred. Olsen brings stunning European waterways 'closer' with Scottish flights on 2019 Brabant sailings

Fred. Olsen River Cruises is bringing the stunning waterways of Europe 'closer' to its guests in Scotland and the north of the UK with flights from Edinburgh on 10 of its Brabant river cruises in 2019.

On 4th April 2019, Brabant will set sail on its second river cruise season, serving some of Europe's finest waterways, including the Rhine, Main, Moselle and Danube, with 33 tempting itineraries to choose from, 10 of which will include direct flights from Scotland.

Guests can take advantage of a 'FREE Tips & Dining Drinks' upgrade on almost every Brabant itinerary in 2019, on all new bookings made by 28th February 2019, allowing guests to enjoy complimentary selected house wines, beers, spirits and soft drinks when served with lunch and dinner, with the 'added extra' of all gratuities being paid by Fred. Olsen.

A 'No Single Supplement' offer with Scottish flights will also apply on Brabant's R1903 'Springtime Dutch Discovery' sailing in April 2019.

Keith Norman, River Sales Manager at Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, said:

"At Fred. Olsen, we pride ourselves on bringing the world 'closer' to our guests, and we know how important it is to those living in Scotland and the north of the UK to have convenient, direct flights available close to them.

"We are now excited to begin another year of sensational scenic cruising on board stylish Brabant, along some of Europe's most picturesque waterways, to culture-rich countries and sensational cities, and Scottish guests are sure to find an itinerary to suit all tastes and interests.

“We believe that the option of hassle-free direct Scottish flights, together with our new range of great-value booking offers, will add that extra special touch to what we know will be a fantastic holiday, whether you are an existing Fred. Olsen river cruise guest, or you are trying Brabant for the very first time.”
