

Dec 20, 2018 12:05 GMT

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines' 'Boudicca' to take part in momentous 'Voyage of Remembrance' for Normandy veterans in Royal British Legion and Arena Travel charter

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines is proud to be working with the Royal British Legion to offer a 'Voyage of Remembrance' for Normandy veterans, to commemorate the 75th anniversary of D-Day. The Royal British Legion has chartered Fred. Olsen's 880-guest ship Boudicca for the voyage, which will take up to 300 veterans, plus a relative or carer, to a series of commemorative events in both England and France.

The voyage will set sail from Dover on 2nd June 2019 and will head to Dunkirk, France, before calling into Poole and Portsmouth in England for commemorative events. From there, Boudicca will follow the same route as those involved in the Battle of Normandy, travelling to Le Havre, France, on 6th June 2019, exactly 75 years after the D-Day Landings.

Peter Deer, Commercial Director at Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, said:

"We feel honoured to be part of the Royal British Legion's commemorations, marking the 75th anniversary of the D-Day Landings and the Battle of Normandy, in what is set to be a very poignant and moving voyage for these veterans and their loved ones.

"The voyage will follow the same path as the ships involved on this momentous day, and Boudicca will provide a comfortable setting in which to retrace those important steps, which brought peace and reconciliation to mark the Second World War."

Bob Gamble, The Royal British Legion's Assistant Director for Commemorative Events, said:

“Seventy five years ago, the largest seaborne invasion force in history set sail for France on a mission to liberate Europe. Alongside their American cousins, nearly 160,000 men from Britain and the Commonwealth landed on the beaches of Normandy.

“Today, we stand in awe of their achievement and salute their bravery and sacrifice. We invite any of them who wish to attend the events to commemorate their achievements to get in touch with the Legion and join our journey back to Normandy.”

The voyage will be free to veterans and their companions, funded by the Royal British Legion's LIBOR grant, in conjunction with the Ministry of Defence and Arena Travel. Anyone wishing to join the sailing should contact the Royal British Legion to request an application form, which must be completed and returned by 4th February 2019.

Notes to Editors:

Available for interview:

Normandy Veterans planning to travel to Normandy on board Boudicca.

Bob Gamble, Assistant Director – Commemorative Events, The Royal British Legion.

For more information and interview requests, please contact:

Michael O'Connor, National PR Manager, The Royal British Legion: 020 3207 2268 / 07458 064621; moconnor@britishlegion.org.uk

Charlene Guy, National PR Officer, The Royal British Legion: 020 3207 2237 / 07458 124853; cguy@britishlegion.org.uk

- The Allied invasion of Normandy, known as D-Day, took place on 6 June 1944, and was the largest amphibious assault ever launched. More than 80,000 British and Canadian troops took part in the invasion on the beaches alongside United States Forces, in an Allied invasion Force of nearly 160,000. Another 23,400 British troops were landed by air. Supporting the invasion were more than 7,000 ships off the coast (including the famous HMS Belfast) and 11,000 aircraft. In total, British and Commonwealth casualties (killed, wounded or missing) on D-Day numbered approximately 4,300. The invasion was the first stage in the liberation of Europe from Nazi occupation, which ultimately led to victory for Allied Forces in 1945.

- Operated by Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, Boudicca is named after the British warrior Queen. The ship was designed for world cruising and was extensively refurbished in March 2018. Images and video footage of the Boudicca are available from the RBL Press Office.

Fred. Olsen Cruise Line operates in the UK with four intimately sized ships for a more personal cruising experience.

Contacts

Georgina May

Press Contact

Acting PR Manager

Public Relations

georgina.may@fredolsen.co.uk