Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines' flagship Bolette arrives in Newcastle for inaugural season of sailing from the city

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines has returned to Newcastle for a season of spring and summer sailings, offering departures from the city aboard flagship Bolette for the first time.

Smaller ship *Bolette*has set sail on her inaugural cruise from Newcastle – 'In Search of the Northern Lights in Nine Nights' – with other voyages venturing to Norway, Iceland, Amsterdam, Latvia, Estonia, the Arctic and Sweden.

The milestone was marked with a plaque exchange from the Port of Tyne to Captain Mikael Degerlund prior to Bolette setting sail.

Clare Ward, Director of Product and Customer Service at Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, said:

"We have been offering sailings from Newcastle for many years, and so it is great to be back – this time with our beautiful flagship Bolette.

"Guests joining us from the city can look ahead to some wonderful adventures, including opportunities to witness Holland's tulips in bloom on sailings to Amsterdam, explore many Nordic capitals including Stockholm, Oslo and Copenhagen, or venture off the beaten track on a 23-night adventure into the Arctic.

"Newcastle's north-easterly location means we can offer some fantastic sailings in a much shorter time, including to northern Norway in nine-nights, and the beautiful scenic fjords in just five-nights.

"There's a fantastic choice of sailings on offer, whether guests are looking for culture and history, wildlife and landscapes or to enjoy scenery and landscapes best viewed from the water."

Phil Bedford, International Terminal Manager at the Port of Tyne, said:

"Cruise lines visiting North East England can always expect a warm welcome here at Port of Tyne. As a region, we firmly believe that we have the infrastructure to grow UK departures from the Port of Tyne, and world-class tourist attractions to grow the number of visiting cruise calls.

"Fred. Olsen is committed to serving regional ports around the UK and has been working with the Port of Tyne for over a decade. We enjoy a very loyal following in the North East, and we are pleased to be offering 19 calls from this convenient regional port during this Spring and Summer 2023 season."

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines are proud to sail their own course with their three-strong fleet of smaller ships, Bolette, Borealis and Balmoral, each carrying less than 1,400 guests.

With fewer guests on board, the atmosphere is warm and civilised, and the service is more personal.

This passion for cruising has led to Fred. Olsen having more returning guests than any other cruise line.
