Fred. Olsen Launches 2011 Preview Brochure

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines has launched its 2011 Preview brochure with details of itineraries and prices for 63 cruises from April through to November. All four cruise ships are included, and cruise destination areas are the Mediterranean, Northern Europe and Baltic, the Canary Islands, Iberia, UK and Ireland. There is also a selection of mini cruises lasting from between two to four nights' duration. Cruises depart from six different regional ports: Dover, Southampton, Liverpool, Newcastle, Greenock (for Glasgow), and Rosyth (for Edinburgh).

Key points in the brochure are:

- Preview pricing saves on prices that will appear in the main 2011/2012 brochure.
- Best pick of cabins on the ship and itinerary of your choice.
- Small, friendly ships with a very British atmosphere
- Book a suite on any ship on any cruise and you automatically receive the Suite Dreams package – including in-cabin binoculars, and a world atlas for reference.

One of the highlights of the programme is the Black Watch's 28-night exploration of the Red Sea. Sailing from Dover in October, the cruise takes in ports in the Mediterranean en route to the Suez Canal, then after a stop in Jordan returns through the Canal to the Med and back to Dover. Prices for this cruise start at £2,859 per person in an inside twin bedded cabin.

A fascinating cruise on Boudicca in September is a 13-night itinerary from Newcastle to Norway and Iceland. Prices start from £1,339 in an inside twin bedded cabin, and there is also an overnight stay in Iceland's capital city of Reykjavik.

Five mini cruises are featured, including a four night break over August Bank Holiday on board Black Watch. Sailing from Dover on 27th August, the cruise visits Amsterdam, Bremerhaven and Ostend before returning to Dover. Prices for this Bank Holiday jaunt start at just £409 per person in an inside twin bedded cabin.

All prices include accommodation, food and entertainment on board, and port taxes.

The Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines brochure has been sent to every travel agent, and the cruises are on sale from 25th February, 2010.
