There will be opportunities to seek out the Northern Lights in adventures into Arctic Norway, look out for polar bears in Nunavut, explore the lesser-visited islands of the Azores and see in 2025 with spectacular celebrations in Funchal or Lisbon, plus the chance to join a Mystery Cruise.

Departures will be available from Southampton, Portsmouth, Dover, Liverpool, Newcastle and Rosyth, and aboard all three of Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines' smaller-sized ships, Bolette, Borealis and Balmoral. Guests departing from Dover will also benefit from free parking at the port.

Clare Ward, Director of Product and Customer Service at Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines, said:

“There is now more value than ever in choosing a cruise as your next getaway.

“While general holiday prices are increasing, cruising with Fred. Olsen offers a wide range of features in one package – comfortable accommodation, delicious food, captivating entertainment and expertly crafted itineraries – with all the little details taken care of.

“When you cruise with us, you’ll enjoy a warm and friendly atmosphere and the feeling of being on a real ship, close to the sea.

“We carefully craft our on-board experience, just as we take great care when designing our itineraries to ensure they visit beautiful, interesting destinations at the best times of year and include the most imaginative, scenic sailing routes, some of which are only accessible on smaller ships.”
